MARSHAL BAZAINE'S TRIAL

EXCITEMENT IN THE COURT ROOM

PARIS Oct 17—The trial of Marshal Bazaine was resumed to-day. The President of the Court asked why only two dispatches—one on the 15th of September and the other on the 21st of October—were sent by the Marshal to the Government of the National Defense. Bazaine replied that he had received none of that Government's communications. In answer to other questions he stated that in sending Gen Bourbaki to the Empress he sent him to the one who in his view, was the only representative of the Government. He had received no official information of the general election.

The President said the Marshal's intention of reaching Thionville did not agree with his theory that after the surrender of Sedan a sortie from Metz was impossible and he put the question whether or not the Marshal had agreed with the Prussians to cease offensive movements from the time of Bourbaki's departure.

Bazaine replied by pointing to the subsequent engagements in September and October.

The President—Why was there no serious engagement for the purpose of supporting the negotiations of the Government of the National Defense?

Bazaine—Our sick and wounded prevented such a course. It would have used up the army while the enemy were all the time being reinforced.

The Marshal said his offer on the 29th of September to General Stiehle, to capitulate, was a ruse.

In regard to the Convention which he subsequently concluded with the Germans he said: "My position was unprecedented. I was, in a certain sense, my own Government. The duties of a military chief, when a legal Government exists are strictly defined. I by no means admit that to be the case in the presence of an insurrectionary Government. There was then no Government, there was nothing."

The President—What? France then no longer existed? [Sensation.]

Bazaine in explanation of his previous answer said that in using the words "to obtain a neutrality for the army" he meant to obtain an armistice, for the purpose of establishing a regular Government. He protested against an assertion by the President of the Court that his (Bazaine) words "The army would maintain order inside the city" was an allusion to civil war. He declared that his proposals were misunderstood. He never at any time treated Regnier's mission seriously.

The President—All the steps taken at this period—overtures and communications with the Germans—were most serious when thinking of the admirable army which you might have led to the last extremity. I hope you weighed well all the results of the proposed convention.

Bazaine reiterated that his motives were misunderstood and his proposals misinterpreted.

The examination was here temporarily suspended amid the utmost excitement.

On resumption of proceedings the prisoner being further interrogated, stated that the Commandants of Corps were aware of the Regnier affair, although it was not mentioned in the Council of War held on the 10th of October. He considered however that secrecy in his negotiations with the Germans was his duty.

The President—I am compelled to ask you whether all your acts and thoughts were for your country and the army?

Bazaine—They were. I always acted honestly according to the dictates of my conscience.

Being asked the object of General Boyer's journey to England about the 19th of October the accused said he had hoped that the Empress would obtain a conclusion of the convention especially if she could be induced to come to Metz.

The President reminded the accused of his military oath and asked him whether he observed the regulations forbidding capitulation in the field.

Bazaine pleaded as justification the existence of an insurrectionary Government.

The President—Does the Imperial Constitution, to which you consider it your duty to [illegible], authorize negotiating and treating with an enemy as you did?

The Marshal replied that it did not. He maintained that the capitulation was compulsory. He had resisted to the last, not having even a morsel of bread left.

At this point the sitting was adjourned. The court room was crowded and there were frequent scenes of excitement. The accused was embarrassed in manner and often hesitated in making replies to the searching interrogations of the Court.

ROBERT BROWNING.—A London letter to the World about poetical people says:

There can be no doubt about it that Robert Browning is a disappointed man and the pity is that he betrays it. In society he is restless nervous, destitute entirely of the repose of the Great Alfred. People who know him intimately tell me that he is greatly changed since the death of his gifted wife whom he loved so well. By the way, it is not generally known how these two came together. The authoress of Aurora Leigh was the daughter of an English gentleman of an eccentric turn of mind. This eccentricity took the form of a morbid objection to the poetess getting married and he kept her strictly secluded from the world in an old country mansion. The monotony of her life was relieved by intense hard study. Before she was twenty years of age she had mastered Greek, Latin, French and German and made her voice heard in lyric strains through the medium of magazines. Her efforts attracted the attention of Browning. He managed to elude the vigilance of the father and the warder at the gate and he presented himself before the poetess [illegible] almost unannounced, and [illegible] asked her hand in matrimony. They were [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible]. The barriers were swept aside and the two [illegible] were united. There was [illegible] who [illegible] at the time, she [illegible] about nineteen.

A DEFAULTING LITTERATEUR.—The literary society [illegible] has just been the victim [illegible]. [illegible] was in the habit of [illegible] the figures [illegible] for the sums paid to authors [illegible] their receipts and [illegible] pocketing the difference. For example [illegible] give receipt for so much. [illegible] it would [illegible] making 180 francs. He had abstracted about 4000 francs in this way before detected and no one knows how long the thing has been going on. He has been arrested and will be brought to trial and as the proof is clear he is certain of from three to five years hard labor.—Paris Letter

REPUDIATED BONDS

WHAT'S THE MATTER IN MISSISSIPPI

Away back in 183[illegible] the State of Mississippi borrowed in New York and Europe the sum of [illegible] and gave her bonds [illegible]. This money was borrowed for the purpose of loaning it to the planters and business men of the State. For this purpose it was placed in the Union and the Planters Bank [illegible] in sums of $1000 and upward. The plan looked like a good one. Here were banks and planters getting money at a low rate and at the same time the State was deemed secure from loss. Money was plenty and everybody was happy and the wonder was why the consummate plan to make easy times had not been thought of before. But as the notes fell due they were not met promptly. Some were not met at all. Suits were brought, the lawyers had fat fees, hard times came and the banks broke. The money was frittered and loaned and frittered away. The Legislature to its everlasting disgrace [illegible] took advantage of some trifling technicalities and repudiated the whole debt. Since that time the specter of the repudiated bonds have hung like the sword of Damocles over Mississippi. In every campaign they came up and in every market in the world Mississippi suffered. Her credit has been third rate ever since. No one has faith in her promises to pay. As a mere matter of economy it would have been better to have paid that debt when first due for certainly the State has suffered two fold in consequence of the repudiation. The bonds have been hawked about ever since at from two to three cents on a dollar according as the hopes of payment always slim rose and fell. The principal and interest now amount to nearly $30 000,000.

And now what a splendid opportunity to make a fortune if the payment of those bonds can be forced upon the people. The whole amount could be bought for a song. The Legislature could be captured for a small per cent of the grand total. The only difficulty then in the way would be the Governor. If he did not veto the arrangement the holders of the bonds would succeed in these plans. But they know they cannot expect anything from Alcorn. They tried him shortly after he was elected to the Governorship four years ago, as he says himself. They first want to fix the Governor and make sure of him before they buy the Legislature.

It is understood that Ben Butler holds a large quantity of bonds and is attorney for the rest of the holders. I do not know how true this is but it is certain that he has recently written to Acting Governor Powers making inquiry as the amount of the State debt. This is of startling significance to the people of Mississippi and hence their keen anxiety to find somebody to beat Ames. For this reason they support Alcorn and in fact would support anybody to floor Ben. Butler's son-in-law.

Ames protests that he is not in favor of paying the bonds, that his father in law is not a holder of them, that he is as much opposed to paying as anybody, and that if the Legislature passes a law to fund them he will veto it.

But the property holders distrust him, from the fact that he is not himself a property-holder, and does not live in the State. As Alcorn says they cannot trust thirty millions of dollars to a non resident.

Ames has many disadvantages to contend with and if it was not for the united and unflinching support which the negroes give him he would fare slim. His greatest disadvantage is the fact that he is old Ben Butler's son in law. There is no man in the United States so cordially hated here as Ben Butler or one in whom the people have so little confidence. He is continually referred to as the Beast, and poor Ames as the son in law of the Beast.

In addition to this, Ames is surrounded by a bad set. Gibbs on the ticket with him for Auditor, has been charged by Ames as being corrupt. In 1869 Gibbs and Dugan tried to swindle the State out of $20,000 by fraudulent printing accounts. Ames then Provisional Governor, checkmated their game and used this language: "I know that man Gibbs to be corrupt * * * No party can live that uphold such men." But now between Gibbs and Ames all seems to be lovely.

O C French, the head of the Radical party in Adams county where Ames' lives, is a defaulter to the Government for $16 000. This appears on record and is not a story trumped up for campaign use.

The Pilot Ames' State organ is an injudicious and blatherskite sheet. It struck a serious blow at the cause of its master by saying that if the Republican party remains in power the repudiated debt will be paid.—Cor Cincinnati Commercial

BURIAL OF CAPT HALL

A SKETCH OF THE FUNERAL

By Schumann is particularly affecting. The scene on the foreground is a series of rugged blocks of ice, a snow plain white with undriven snow occupies the middle distance, while in the distance are rugged bluffs and promontories and huge masses of amorphous rocks. To the left of the picture the ice-bound waters of Polaris Bay shimmer in the clear light of the stars and the more fitful gleams of the evanescent auroras. On a snow bank close to the edge of the bay is a wooden shed (the observatory) and a tall flag pole with the stars and stripes drooping at half mast. In the centre of the picture slowly trudging along over the snow plain is the funeral cortege. The bier rests on a sledge and is covered with the national flags. In procession two by two the crew in their Arctic dress fur caps fur jackets and top boots with lanterns in their hands are gently dragging the sledge with a hawser. One man marches a few paces in advance at the head of the procession lantern in hand. Behind the sled are the Esquimaux members of the crew struggling after the sledges in bewilderment and grief at the com[illegible].

AFTER THE DEATH OF HALL

Mr Schumann a German a Baptist and a teetotaller complains that after Captain Hall's death the regular Sunday services which were so faithfully held from Sabbath to Sabbath during the Commander's regime fell into desuetude. "Things got very changed then I tell you," are his words. The carpenter Mr Coffin who measured Hall's body for the bier states that the countenance was calm placid and devoid of the least trace of pain or suffering, far more natural and fresh in color than any face in death he ever remembers to have seen. The carpenter as I have already said is a poet and his lucubrations have been enlivening the pages of the Scottish newspapers. There is no questioning the honest sincerity of his emotion when he recites his lofty panegyric of the greatness of Captain Hall. Hall one may say died with the word 'Excelsior' on his lips. "[illegible] never mind me" was his latest utterance.—N Y Herald

A RIDER KILLED AT A VIRGINIA FAIR.—Winchester Va Oct 1[illegible]—The fair was largely attended to-day. Mr [illegible] D [illegible]'s sorrel filly won the running race and took the premium. Mr Edward Sowers' three year old colt Black-skin won the trotting race. At the start of the first race, Mr [illegible] of Cumberland Md was thrown from his horse and fatally injured. The horse on which he was riding, shied at the track, jumped the fence [illegible] him [illegible] all the [illegible]. He died this evening. Mr [illegible] is the second rider this horse Harkaway has killed within a year.

LIABILITY OF CANAL BOATS AS MARINE VESSELS.—Philadelphia Oct [illegible]—Eugene Howell representing individual owners of canal boats has returned from Washington where he laid before the President certain charges against the Secretary of the Treasury for refusing to accept three decisions of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland District Courts as binding in regard to non liability of canal boats to license as marine vessels.

Washington Oct [illegible]9—Canal Boats are declared not subject to the inspection laws provided they navigate canals and no other waters.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY LEGISLATURE

Fourth Biennial Session.

[From our Special Correspondent]

OLYMPIA Oct 20 1873

The House was called to order at the usual hour.

A petition was presented by Mr Van Vleet to amend the charter of the city of Kalama by granting certain local powers to the Mayor and Common Council of said city. Referred to delegations from Cowlitz and Wahkiakum.

A message was received from the Council approving of the following: Bill to prevent contagious and infectious diseases amongst domestic animals and acts in relation to stock marks and estrays.

H B No 50 was then introduced by Mr. Clark of Pierce being an act to amend certain sections of an act defining the practice and jurisdiction of Probate Courts in this Territory. Read twice and referred to Judiciary Committee with instructions to print amendments. The above bill provides that on the death of a rich uncle his heirs shall be entitled to some remuneration for the trouble and expense they may have sustained by awaiting such death and strictly carries out the proverb, 'that charity begins at home.'

Mr Hovey introduced H Memorial No 7, relative to carrying mails 43 113 and 43 114, between Port Gamble and Seabeck, and Seabeck and Union City by steam vessels instead of small sailing vessels as now provided for. Passed.

Mr Kuhn presented H M No 8, relative to establishing a Land Office at Port Townsend, W T. Passed.

H B No 51, introduced by Mr Henry—an act to legalize acknowledgments taken before Commissioners of Deeds in W T between Jan 1 1872 and Jan 1 1873. Read a second time and referred to Judiciary Committee.

H B No 52 by Mr Yantis—amends an act establishing a common school system in W T, and constitutes sixty six instead of seventy two days in a school quarter. Read a second time and referred to the Committee on Education.

H B No 53 by Mr Caton—also relates to a common school system in the Territory, and was referred to same committee.

I believe it is the intention to have all the amendments which may be introduced relating to the common school system submitted to the committee for the purpose of having one general law framed to further the advancement of education in this Territory.

H B No 38 authorizing Messrs Porter and Bozbee to build a wharf at Penn's Cove. On being brought up for a second reading, was, on motion, indefinitely postponed.

H B No 39 asking for an appropriation of $7,500 to aid in the construction of a wagon road through the Snoqualmie Pass in the Cascade Mountains, thus opening communication between eastern and western Washington, being brought up for a third reading was met by a tremendous cross-fire which was vigorously kept up on both sides for at least one hour, the great objection being the plunging of the Territory into debt by the passage of such bills. During the engagement Mr Lacy offered the following amendment: "That the Territorial tax of Walla Walla Co for the year 1873 be, and is hereby appropriated to the county of Walla Walla, to be used in the building of a county jail for said Walla Walla county."

The Hon gentleman from Pierce, in the course of his remarks on the subject of the bill announced that it was the intention of the Legislature this year to elect an honest Territorial Auditor, from which I infer that it is the intention to re-elect the present Auditor, if honesty and integrity be the only questions to be considered. On the question of the final passage the bill was overthrown by 16 noes to 13 ayes.

A message was received from the Governor stating that His Excellency had approved the following bills: Act in regard to hogs trespassing. Resolution relating to election of Territorial officers. The House then adjourned till to-morrow.

EXPLOSION OF MOLTEN METAL AND CONFLAGRATION

Yesterday afternoon about two o'clock, the citizens in the neighborhood of Twenty-Fourth and Smallman streets, were startled by a terrific report which resounded through the vicinity and could be heard for some distance away. For a little while great consternation prevailed, which soon rose to an intense excitement when the rumor went forth that a boiler had exploded in the well known National Pipe Works of Messrs William Smith & Sons. Soon there was a rush made for the place by anxious women and children, who wanted to know what had become of friends and kindred.

A little investigation revealed the fact that no boiler had exploded, but that an accident had happened, which will prove nearly as terrible in its results. The founders were engaged at the flasks casting what is known as thirty-six inch pipes, which are used as water mains. These pipes are of immense weight and require several tons of metal. Two of these huge mains had been cast, and the third was nearly poured—from the cupola, when the molten metal commenced to leak, owing to the expansion of the newly made pipe. Soon the metal poured in the pit and ran over it and all at once, without a moment's warning, the entire flask exploded, sending the up every direction and to add to the excitement and terror of the moment the crane was also set ablaze. Nearly all the men who were away from the pit and who were struck by the molten metal were struck sideways, the stuff passing them and inflicting but little injury outside of frightening them. But not so fortunate were some four of the men. Their names are Patrick Finney residing on Twenty eighth near Smallman street; Thomas Williams Twenty fifth street; John Gohaz, No 100 Carpenter alley, Allegheny and Joseph Frazier residing on Federal street near Wylie avenue. Williams had charge of the crane at the pit when the accident occurred. He says he was thrown out of the pit by the explosion. His clothes were set on fire and he ran with his burning habiliments on to the street and was caught and managed with great difficulty and the fire upon him subdued. His injuries are very severe, his body, back and neck being fearfully burned, but he will recover. Poor Finney was more unfortunate. He was most horribly mutilated. The hot iron seemed to have struck him all over the body. His head was burned terribly, the back of his neck his chest and limbs were burned to the bones. Even his stockings were literally burned from his feet. He bore his injuries with great fortitude but he cannot recover. Joseph Frazier a young man was also most terribly burned.

HIS INJURIES WILL RESULT FATALLY

The metal struck him on the head and penetrated the cranium. His neck and throat are also burned and he was unable even to gesticulate. Between the lower limbs and ar[illegible] and the thighs the flesh was burned from the bones and a more suffering human being could not well be imagined. Gohaz was also very badly burned about the head, neck, shoulders, arms and limbs his left arm especially being most injured but the physicians have strong hopes of his recovery.

WOMEN RUSHED EVERYWHERE

And some of them furnished bandages while others swooned away and others went into hysterics making the scene more terrible and exciting. Woman after woman came to inquire for her husband but the men who were hurt are all believed to be single. Frazier is said to be the support of aged parents and his mother is lying ill. Mr R H Smith evinced the greatest anxiety for his men, and if ever kindness could alleviate suffering his certainly must have been most effective. He spared no pains or expense. He had carriages upon the ground and had the men taken to their homes and saw that they should receive proper attention and that they were thoroughly provided for. He was everywhere lending all the aid in his power.—Pittsburg (Pa) Gazette, Oct 11th

THE TERRITORIES

Grace Greenwood is giving readings and entertainments in southern Colorado.

The artesian well at Fort Russell, Wyoming is now bored to the depth of 820 feet, and no rock has yet been struck.

A man from Central, when asked by a Denver waiter what he would have for breakfast, replied: "Well I rather guess I'll flop my jaw over a chicken."

Several hides were lost overboard from a small boat in Baker's bay last Friday, while being conveyed to the tug Varuna, en route from Unity to Portland. Unity is in want of a wharf.

Fort Yuma used to be called the hottest place in North America. It has been excelled this season by Fort Mohave, higher up the Colorado where, for many days, the mercury rose in the shade up to 122°.

A dishonest negro stole $40 from Miss Blakesly, at the Beebee House, Idaho Springs, the other day. Before the constable got hold of the darkey he had spent nearly all the money for peaches and plums.

The total amount advanced by Jay Cooke & Co to the Northern Pacific and its connections, including the O. S. N. Co., is $9,318,216, truly a gigantic sum. So says the Walla Walla Statesman.

The Olympia Courier says: "One 'Tl [illegible],' an aborigine of bigamistic tendencies, has been sentenced by Gen Milroy to a week's hard labor on the streets, for marrying a second maid of the forest without having the matrimonial noose loosened that bound him to his first wife."

The Montanian says none of the Crow Indians have ever been East, and few have seen a greater number of white men than are around the reservation, and they imagine that most of the white men have been killed off by the Sioux and other hostile tribes, and the few and all that were not killed, fled to Montana.

The mountain route to the Sound, through Snoqualmie, is still open, a large drove of cattle started through a few days ago. The last of the month, perhaps, will close that avenue of communication, and about that time, or shortly thereafter, snow will fall in the Klickitat Mountains, so as to make the Dalles [illegible] impassable until the 1st of April.

This is the style of "[illegible]" when a [illegible] editor goes off for a few days: [illegible] "Our senior has gone to the wilds of the Rocky Mountains, armed with rifle and fishing rod. He has gone where the [illegible] mourneth, the trout wiggleth, the [illegible] squirmeth, and the snake wiggleth—may the latter get no farther than his boots."

A gentleman riding from Wallula to Walla Walla on the 14th, met 8 teams having 12 wagons, 8 horses each, 27 teams having 27 wagons, 6 horses each, 83 teams having 83 wagons, 4 horses each, 2 teams having 2 [illegible], 3 horses each, 28 teams having 28 [illegible], 2 horses each, 1 team having 1 wagon and 10 horses. Total number of teams 149, number of wagons 153, number of horses 630.

A coal mine has been discovered about fifteen miles from Walla Walla, which promises to be of great importance to that section. The same material, so it is said, was [illegible] as early as 1863, but it attracted no attention, as no one seemed to suspicion the [illegible] of coal in that region of the country. Since that time it has been struck frequently by parties digging wells, but until recently the real character of the mineral was not considered.

A letter from Kittitas, W. T., says: "The herders from the lower Yakima river are here gathering up their stock preparatory to driving them below on the sage plains, there to subsist for the winter on the white sage. They have got the best of the grass in Kittitas. The resident stock will have short picking this winter. Some of our residents talk of driving on to the white sage to winter their stock, so as to [illegible] the account with the herders below."

The Walla Walla St[illegible] says: "Just now beef of very fine quality is just a little cheaper here than in any other place in the United States. The contract for beef to be furnished at the Walla Walla Post, let last week, was awarded to Mr R. J. Stringer, at $3.[illegible]0 per hundred weight. We also see fine fat forequarters of beef hanging in front of our butcher shops, labelled '3 cents per lb by the quarter.' While cut [illegible] retail on the block from eight cents down to just as low as you want it."

A Walla Walla paper of the 18th says: "On last Tuesday the first wheat ever shipped by rail in this valley was placed on the cars about two miles this side of Cummings' [illegible], and nine miles this side of Wallula, and taken to that place. Only twenty-four tons were taken at the first trip merely as an experiment. But it was carried through safely and in a little more than an hour's time. Hereafter it is not probable that much wheat will be hauled by wagon further than to where a connection can be made with the cars."

ANOTHER VERSION OF THE GOODRICH TRAGEDY.—The following is the substance of a statement said to have been made to a reporter on Saturday by Mrs Lucette Myers. On Monday March 17th she overheard Roscoe and Kate Stoddard agreeing to visit Mr Goodrich on Thursday and 'fix matters.' On that evening she warned the deceased that Kate and Roscoe were plotting against him. As soon as he left she disguised herself in men's clothes and called a young man named John Henry Beach to accompany her. They followed Goodrich home. Giving him time to get well in, she entered with a key she had and hid themselves. Soon they heard Kate talking angrily. She said 'This is the last time you'll leave me to visit any ——' and instantly a shot was fired and a body fell heavily on the floor. Mr Goodrich said, 'Oh don't!' and then a second shot was fired. She sprang out and saw Kate wiping the blood from the dying man. Roscoe recognized the intruder and threatened death if she informed, and she ran off. This was about two in the morning. She had met Kate and Roscoe since the murder.—N Y Tribune, Oct 6th

Mr Edward Jenkins, author of 'Ginx's Baby,' submitted to an interview with a reporter of the Boston Post the other day in which he expressed his views upon English Republicanism and other important topics connected with English politics. Questioned about some of the notable Englishmen who are now in this country Mr Jenkins said that Mr Arch though a man of humble origin is remarkably eloquent and able and has a great personal influence. Of Mr Bradlaugh he said: "I believe him to be a man of great ability but he is a man whose political and religious views are different from mine. He has I believe a great influence. Sir Charles Dilke told me that Bradlaugh had the largest personal following of any man in England. In one or two things which have come under my notice I have certainly been struck with the gentlemanly spirit he has exhibited."

Mayor Havemeyer has offered a reward of $1 000 for the arrest and conviction of the cowardly scoundrel who recently threw oil of vitriol in the face of Walter Gibson, editor of the Harlem Local. It is said that both eyes were nearly destroyed, and that they will never regain their strength.

BACKPAYMANIA.

Between the newspaper press on the one hand and General Butler and Senator Carpenter on the other, the question of the modesty of the Forty-Second Congress has been pretty thoroughly discussed. But the former looked only to the depleted Treasury at Washington, while the [illegible] with a kind of bull-dog courage, sought to bolster up a failing cause by such logic as an unfortunate precedent and a [illegible] effrontery could furnish. Only [illegible] aristocracy of either branch of that [illegible] body had spoken. It remained for some individual in the lowly and ra[illegible] mob to utter the unconsidered [illegible] of a large class which had hitherto [illegible] the abuse of the newspapers while they patiently pocketed the cash. Such a [illegible] has come to the surface. We have his ingenious wail before us.

Hon. John M. Bright, of the Fourth [illegible] of Tennessee, and one of the frail [illegible] puts in a kind of special plea. We [illegible] to believe that toward the close [illegible] of February, the average Con[illegible] restless under the burden [illegible] Credit Mobilier and kindred investiga[illegible]. He [illegible] for the bosom of his [illegible] and the unalloyed sweets of private [illegible]. At last, in a fit of emotional insanity, he voted for the salary grab, under the [illegible] that Congress would never adjourn until the Presidential salary was [illegible] to $50,000. It is the old story of the [illegible] mind with its unfailing se[illegible] of indignation. This was the in[illegible] of the Maine Democratic platform which denounced "the Republican [illegible] in the Forty-Second Congress [illegible] the Democratic members" into [illegible] the retroactive increase. Mr. [illegible] in behalf of the average Congress[illegible] little of that "charity [illegible] long and is kind." He [illegible] into what straits the angry ty[illegible] sentiment has driven all [illegible]; how, "when I shun [illegible], I fall into Charybdis, [illegible]." And verily Mr. Bright [illegible] showing of the diffi[illegible] himself and fellows [illegible] in which he and they are [illegible] to the government, [illegible] cry out with the New [illegible] said of the taxpayers, [illegible] led by cowardice or [illegible] by considerations [illegible] If I should propose to [illegible] a fund of a university, [illegible] quarter, that I [illegible] board of a mock [illegible] only charity in the rind, [illegible] the core. If I had left it in [illegible] would have been [illegible] only left there with the dis[illegible] it out after the storm [illegible] to give it to the [illegible] they are [illegible] of it would be [illegible] to keep it, others [illegible] upon the princi[illegible] guilty as the thief. [illegible] I am [illegible] dumb [illegible] If I attempt an explana[illegible] only a hollow [illegible] I must be beaten any-[illegible]

[illegible] ity of pathos in that [illegible] to the fate of the [illegible] what untimely fate has [illegible] time immemorial, to [illegible] when the temper of [illegible] Malprac[illegible] he represents has [illegible] in these days that [illegible] public opinion, has [illegible] to its judicial function [illegible] prosecutor. In a more [illegible] in New York, for in[illegible] Backpaymania might [illegible] Mr. Bright and all of his kin [illegible] their minds that their [illegible] taken from the roll of at[illegible] on the people.

ARCH AND HIS MISSION.

[illegible] of the Workingmen's [illegible] New York city, on the 9th [illegible] announced that Joseph Arch, [illegible] of the farming classes [illegible] would come to New York in [illegible]. The special mission which [illegible] to America to accomplish [illegible] scheme for the emigration [illegible] 100,000 English laborers, [illegible] can be found in suitable [illegible] at prices within the [illegible] desiring to emigrate. The [illegible] the most comprehensive [illegible] devised in the interests [illegible] of the Old World. [illegible] on this continent Arch bent [illegible] and Canada, preferring, as he [illegible] the rich tide of emigration [illegible] of England in prefer[illegible] the United States. At the meet[illegible] the gentleman who an[illegible] the coming of Arch, said that he [illegible] upon Canada, because [illegible] appointed in not receiving [illegible] of land as large as he had desired. [illegible] was appointed to communi[illegible] him and ask him if he intends [illegible] of the upper classes or of [illegible] people. Probably the spirit [illegible] this inconsiderate action is [illegible] with that which demanded of [illegible] Bradlaugh that he advocate Inter[illegible] and Communism in his course [illegible] lectures. Perhaps Mr. Arch [illegible] conclude that it is no part of [illegible] of these inquisitive working [illegible] whether he lodge in Fifth [illegible] Hotel or in a hovel. We are not [illegible] look with a very great degree of [illegible] those demagogues of Labor, who [illegible] these noisy demonstrations, who [illegible] continually reminding the world that [illegible] are a "lower class." No true farmer [illegible] is possessed of an iota of self-respect [illegible] ever concede that his employment is [illegible] noble or that there are classes above [illegible] in dignity and real gentility. From [illegible] fact that Cooper Institute, which is [illegible] to be obtained for worthy objects, [illegible] denied this Council for the purpose [illegible] a demonstration, one would [illegible] that Arch's mission is not to [illegible]

[illegible] was one notable feature connect[illegible] this meeting: a Mr. Blair read a [illegible] from Mr. Shankland, of [illegible] National Grange of the Patrons of [illegible], offering the best flour, ham [illegible] to the [illegible] men of New [illegible] delivered [illegible] at a [illegible] twenty-[illegible] men's Council will do well to consider this proposition, leaving Joseph Arch to pursue his inquiries in peace. From all accounts we infer that he is a shrewd business manager and fully competent to fulfill the task he has undertaken. Joseph Arch should come to the West—to Oregon. We need him here; but most of all, we need his two hundred thousand earnest laborers.

BOSTON AND BUNKER HILL.

When General Jackson made his pilgrimage to Bunker Hill he was told in Boston with much humility that he must cross Charles River and enter another municipality in order to visit the historic ground. He expressed surprise that the citizens of the Hub should suffer the world-famous monument to remain outside the limits of their city. Perhaps it was because the old hero was looking to the inevitable "reception" with which he was to be bored. Again, when all Boston received Tyler, the exultant city was checked in its enthusiasm by the reflection that the escorts of policemen which attended the President must be sworn in as special constables of Charlestown before they could set foot on the soil of the latter independent municipality. The Hub has been thinking over this thing ever since. At various times the subject of annexing the suburban towns has been agitated, but until last spring all overtures have been met with a decided negative from the towns.

At last, after a long and exciting struggle, the citizens of Charlestown, Brighton, West Roxbury and Boston have decided to unite their fortunes and their taxes. Brookline, one of the handsomest towns in New England, rejected the union by a large majority.

On the 1st of January next, Boston will become a city of nineteen thousand acres, with a population of 292,480, and a property valuation of $765,470,651. In Brighton Boston gains control of the famous cattle markets and obtains one of the most desirable places for suburban residence in Massachusetts.

By the consolidation of Charlestown, Bunker Hill is brought under the jurisdiction of Boston. This, perhaps, is to the Boston mind the happiest result of the recent vote. Now that each of these towns is a ward in the city, the Advertiser suggests that it retain its ancient name, and be henceforward known as Charlestown Ward; and that all the wards in the city of Boston be named in honor of Adams, Webster and other famous citizens of Massachusetts. In reality, Boston has voted to go back to Charlestown, from whom she originated.

WORTH AN INVESTIGATION, PERHAPS.

In the report of President Orton, of the Western Union Telegraph Company, to which we referred yesterday, the following suggestive paragraph occurs:

> "The franks [illegible] ed to Government officials constitute nearly a third of the total complimentary busin[illegible]. The wires of the Western Union Company extend into 37 States and nine Territories within the limits of the United States, and into four of the British provinces. In all of them our property is more or less subject to the action of the National, State, and municipal authorities, and the judicious use of complimentary franks among them has been the means of saving to the Company many times the money value of the free service performed."

This is only another phasing of Oakes Ames' legend: "Put everything where it will do the most good." It may be remarked that this is not the only instance in which Mr. Orton's report displays an agreeable frankness and candor of which most executive officers' reports are noticeably destitute in these days. He tells us that the profits of his corporation amounted in seven years to more than $20,000,000, and this, to all appearances, is not done for the purpose of raising the market value of Western Union stock.

President Orton says that the property of his company is "more or less subject to the action of national authorities." That is, the latter have the power to injure the interests of the company. And he says—in effect—that the sop of the franking privilege is thrown to the Governmental Cerberus. "The judicious use of complimentary franks" is something like the judicious distribution among legislators of railway passes, or the placing of Credit Mobilier stock. Unconsciously, perhaps, Mr. Orton has hinted at a kind of bribery which has become a crying evil. Perhaps the Forty-Third Congress, after it shall have re-enacted the free exchange newspaper law and repealed the salary grab, may relax the tedious debates on the tariff, with an inquiry into the means by which this telegraph monopoly is enabled to "save many times the money value of the free service performed for Government officials.

GEMS OF "STYLE."

It has been said that the bitter personal abuse and tincture of blackguardism which occasionally creeps into Oregon newspapers, is peculiar to this State. It has been dubbed, and it is known in many localities as "The Oregon Style." But we have not seen in any Oregon newspaper in late years, anything that approaches the following, taken from the St. Cloud (Minn.) Times in ferocity:

> The St. Paul Press, not being satisfied with lying about Hon. Ara Barton, in its issue of Friday last, publishes another falsehood in the Saturday's paper, the writer of which is too mean to live, and the sooner such men are dead the better off the country will be. It contains a letter purporting to have been written by Mr. Barton, which it no doubt manufactured for the occasion, in which it tries to show that Mr. Barton is no scholar whatever, and is utterly devoid of the use of capitals. The editor of this venomous sheet is so mean and contemptible that it is a wonder he is allowed a mortal existence in this world. Hell is not a bad enough place for such a man as the editor of the Press.

And this one from the Wilmington (Ill.) Advocate, far outsoars the highest flight of the Bulletin's associate-editor.

> "Wharton, of the Joliet Republican has been delivering an essay before the Joliet Philosophical Society, It is a good thing, and it 'took' well as ever. We heard it once as a Fourth of July oration, down in Sangamon county, where its sterling merit was duly applauded. It was read again before the Elgin Buttermilk Association, but probably it was never delivered with more telling effect than in a recent argument for the plaintiff in a notorious rape case in the Supreme Court at Ottawa. Yes, we always admired that essay."

The Salem Statesman staggers at a faint imitation of these jewels of literature. In yesterday's issue it says:

> The Oregonian is likely to gain so [illegible] distinction, any way; if for nothing better than being an unscrupulous retailer of lies and a cringing retractor of the same.

Whenever we see these intemperate little speeches, we think that Crandall has lost a half-dollar on poker, the night before, and then we forgive him.

The New York Herald says that the French monarchy is coming to a head. True enough; that is what it came to in the time of Louis XVI., and his was the head. Comte de Chambord will furnish the next head, probably. The first law of French politics is constitution-making. The second law is regicide. And they are both observed with a scrupulous, hereditary fidelity.

The Missouri Democrat gives Captain Jack the following brief obituary: "First swindled, then whipped, then hung. That settles Capt. Jack." There is a grain of truth in it, too.

Samuel Bowles, of the Springfield (Mass.) Republican, is mentioned as the People's candidate for Mayor in that city.

Ordinance No. 1,391.

AN ORDINANCE TO DETERMINE THE PROportionate share for which certain property is liable for the improvement of the streets fronting or abutting thereon.

The City of Portland does ordain as follows:

Section 1. That portion of the public streets fronting or abutting upon and bounded by certain of the lines of Blocks numbered 312, 313 and 315 in Gillihan's Addition, and Block 105 in Couch's Addition, being irregular in their lines, and intersecting at other than right angles, and in such manner that the ordinary method of making assessments for improvement of intersections of streets are insufficient to protect the right of parties interested; the mode of determining the proportionate share of the cost of improving that portion of the streets in front of or abutting upon said blocks, and lying within the irregular lines above mentioned whether considered as frontage or as intersection, shall be as hereinafter set forth.

Section 2. A line commencing on the center line of B street 24 feet easterly from the intersection of the center lines of B and North Fifteenth streets, running thence easterly and southerly 168 feet more or less, to a point in a line running from the northeast corner of block 315 to the southeast corner of block 105, 69 feet more or less, and equidistant from said corners, shall be deemed the center line; and that portion of said street or streets lying south of said line and in front of said Block 315, shall be chargeable to said Block, and that portion of said street lying north of said line and in front of Block 105 shall be chargeable thereto.

The remaining portion of the street or streets mentioned and described in Section one (1) of this Ordinance shall be subdivided as follows:

That portion bounded by a line commencing at the S. E. corner of Block 105, running thence easterly on the north line of B street 30 feet to the center of North Fourteenth street, thence southerly on a continuation of the center line of North Fourteenth street, 30 feet to the center line of B street, thence westerly on a continuation of said center line of B street 27 feet, thence southwesterly 53 feet more or less, to a point in a line running from the N. E. corner of Block 315 to the S. E. corner of Block 105, and equidistant from said corners, thence along said line 69 feet more or less, to the place of beginning, shall be chargeable to the S. E. ¼ of said Block 105.

That portion abutting upon Block 313 and lying easterly of a line commencing at a point on a continuation of the center line of B street 27 feet westerly from the intersection of the center line of North Fourteenth street therewith, thence southwesterly 53 feet more or less, to a point in a line running from the N. E. corner of Block 315 to the S. E. corner of Block 105, and equidistant therefrom and thence running southeasterly 60 feet more or less to a point where the center line of Washington street intersects the east line of Lownsdale street shall be chargeable to the westerly portion of said Block 313.

That portion lying between a line commencing at the intersection of the east line of Lownsdale street with the center line of Washington street, running thence northwesterly 60 feet more or less, to a point in a line running from the N. E. corner of Block 315 to the southeast corner of Block 105 and equidistant from said corners, and a line running from said last mentioned point 58 feet more or less to the intersection of the south line of Washington street with the center line of Lownsdale street, shall be chargeable to the N. W. quarter of said Block 312.

That portion lying between a line commencing at the intersection of the south line of Washington street with the center line of Lownsdale street, and running thence northwesterly 58 feet, more or less, to a point in a line running from the N. E. corner of Block 315, and the S. E. corner of Block 105, and equidistant therefrom, and said last mentioned line shall be chargeable to the N. E. quarter of said Block 315.

Section 3. The plat of said streets showing the subdivisions herein mentioned and described, attached hereto is hereby adopted and made a part of this Ordinance.

Passed the Common Council, September 24, 1873.
W. S. CALDWELL,
Auditor and Clerk.
In force by operation of law, October 7, 1873.

CITY.

Made His Escape—James Brown the man arrested last Monday evening on suspicion of being the burglar who entered the residence of Mr Moore in East Portland Friday afternoon made his escape from the City Jail during the first part of the same night on which he was placed under arrest He was captured late in the afternoon of Monday and placed in the large room where all the city prisoners are confined It is customary with the police officers to allow the prisoners to remain in the large room during the day time and also until from 9 to 10 o clock in the evening This is to allow them all the freedom possible and to afford the prisoners an opportunity to walk about to exercise themselves After that hour they are locked up in the iron cells for the remainder of the night. Brown was left among the other prisoners until the usual time no one supposing for a moment that he would attempt to effect his escape that being deemed an impossibility When the officer went in about 10 o clock he discovered that the bird had flown On examining the premises one of the bars of the window opening out into the yard was found to have been broken out Examining still closer the discovery was made that the bar was cut off with a small file near the top and that it had been wrenched to and fro until it was broken at the bottom An open space about one foot wide and two and a half long was thus made, through which Brown contrived to crawl On reaching open air he had but little difficulty in scaling the high fence and walking away a free man The work of filing off the bar must have been conducted very noiselessly as the police officers heard nothing at all which sounded suspicious Stranger still, not another prisoner attempted to escape, although there were a dozen in the same room and a good opportunity offered Some days ago, Chief Lappeus noticed that the same bar which is broken out had been tampered with, and he had spoken to a workman several times to have it repaired, but had failed to get it done Brown is well known, and there will be no trouble about his identification so we shall confidently anticipate his rearrest

Literary and Musical Entertainment—As will be observed by reference to another column, a grand musical and literary entertainment will be given this evening at the Masonic Hall The entertainment will be held under the auspices of the Ladies' Relief Society of Portland and the proceeds be contributed towards replenishing the Society's treasury and to assist in meeting the frequent demands made on behalf of charity Aside from the very laudable object to which the money thus raised will be donated, an attractive entertainment is to be offered the public The exercises will consist of music—vocal and instrumental—interspersed at pleasant intervals with choice reading selections Among those who have kindly volunteered their services we observe the names of Col John McCraken, Charles Lancaster, G L DePrans, H Thielsen, Dr J H Hatch, P C Schuyler, Mesdames DePrans, Corbett, Gilbert, and Miss Bodley and others.

Social Party—Instead of holding their usual meeting, the Order of Jolly Good Fellows invited their friends to their hall, in Keller's building, last evening, where a band and prompter was in readiness to discourse music for those in attendance Once they struck up there was a rush for places in the quadrille, and the dance went on, followed by the usual programme of round and squares The neat hall at 10 o'clock was well filled with a merry assembly of devotees to the "art terpsichore." As we retired the band was playing a lively air, to which the dancers tripped with great freedom and ease

Course of Lectures.—We learn that an effort is being made by a number of the members of the First Congregational Church of this city to inaugurate a course of lectures to be delivered during the coming winter under the auspices of that church It is to be hoped that this very laudable effort will be crowned with There ought to be a course of [illegible] delivered in Portland at least once a year under the auspices of some of the religious or literary organizations of the city The last series of lectures were delivered before the Young Men's Christian Association three years ago

Farmers' Excursion—About thirty-five farmers from Linn county, accompanied by their wives and daughters arrived here yesterday on a special train from Albany This morning they will start on the steamer for Astoria. After remaining at that place for a few days, visiting places of interest, and inspecting the new wharf and warehouse which is in process of construction there, will return to city and from thence proceed by rail to Albany. We join in wishing these excursionists a pleasant and profitable trip.

Started Off—Favored with a flood tide and fair wind, the schooner H L Tiernan hoisted her sails on Monday evening and swept clear of the treacherous sand on which she has been grounded for the last ten days She proceeded on to Astoria where she is at present Nearly all of her cargo was taken from the hold and conveyed in scows to Astoria. This is being placed again on board the schooner She will probably sail for Portland to-day Fortunately the hull has sustained no damage

Congregation Beth Israel.—At a late meeting held by the Congregation Beth Israel, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term President, C H Friendly (re-elected), Vice President, A. Beck, Treasurer M Seller, Financial Secretary, A Kraemer Recording Secretary, Ed Kahn Trustees H Hirstel, Sol. Hirsch, Jacob Mayer and S Blumauer, Collector, L. Lemline School Directors—A. Waldman, Ed Kahn, S Levi and H Bories

Adjourned for the Term—The County Court was engaged yesterday in auditing claims, making appropriations for the fiscal year, and also in levying the tax Having concluded its labors, the Court adjourned for the term

Vancouver Wharf—The large Government wharf at Vancouver is fast approaching completion, and will be finished in about two weeks A force of fourteen men are constantly employed at the work.

Will Meet—The Grand Jury which temporarily adjourned on Monday, will reassemble this morning, for the further investigation of such criminal cases as may be brought to their judicial notice

A MISSING MAN.

A few days ago the statement was made in the Statesman that a gentleman named Oliver Pickard residing at Marion Station had absconded a short time since taking away a considerable sum of money We learn from a San Francisco exchange that Pickard, on the 25th of September left his home to go to Roseburg The object of his journey was to buy wheat for himself and for grain speculators in Portland He took with him $4,000 in coin of which about $1 000 was his own and he was to be gone about two weeks His family wrote several times directing their letters to him at Roseburg They received no response but felt no uneasiness on his account until about three weeks ago when Mr Washburne, a merchant at Brownsville informed them that he had seen the old gentleman on the cars near Sacramento He told Mr Washburne that he would stop a day in Sacramento and visit his uncle and that he would be down here the next day to buy some merchandise This immediately excited the suspicions of Mr Pickard's family that something was wrong with him as he had no relatives in Sacramento and no business in this city to bring him down here His son in law who is also his partner in a store at Marion station immediately started out to search for the missing man He went to Roseburg and found all the letters addressed to Mr Pickard lying uncalled for at the Postoffice He then came down to Sacramento and visited every hotel in the city, but could get no trace The last heard of the lost man was at the place where he left Mr. Washburne on the cars at Sacramento He was then somewhat unwell having contracted a severe cold He had his money with him and was carrying it in a careless manner in his carpet bag. Having made a thorough but fruitless search in Sacramento and put the police on the lookout for the missing man Mr. Washburne came down to this city and made a search with the same result The family and friends of Mr. Pickard are greatly exercised about his mysterious disappearance His son in-law states that he could have had no object in absconding He has a farm of seven hundred acres in Oregon, and a family consisting of a wife and eight children, several of them grown up and residing on it His property is worth four or five times as much as he took away with him and is unincumbered. Besides this he has lived in Marion county since 1840, and his well known integrity precludes the idea of his having absconded with the money placed in his hands The description of him given to the police of San Francisco and Sacramento, was as follows Age, sixty years hight, five feet ten inches weight about 165 pounds He is quite gray, has mild blue eyes and a kind, benevolent cast of countenance His upper lip and chin are shaved, but he wears a fringe of whiskers under and around the face

Mr Brown the son in law of the missing man, arrived here last evening on the steamer Ajax, after a long but fruitless search Not being able to discover the slightest trace, he has left the mystery to be traced out if possible, by the police of San Francisco and Sacramento From all the circumstances, it is probable that Mr Pickard was laboring under mental aberration, and it being known that he had about his person considerable money, was murdered and his body concealed His mysterious and continued disappearance is a source of the most painful suspense to his family

Grapes—Grapes are positively needed for the health of the family. We recollect the remark of Father Oglesby the father of Gov. Oglesby of Illinois who was an itinerant Methodist minister in the Ohio Conference forty or fifty years ago When he was traveling a six weeks circuit on foot in the fever and ague villages of the Miami and Mad rivers he said if he could stand the summer till grapes were ripe he was safe. He could wade through waves of miasma ten feet deep without harm if he could get a plenty of Catawba or Isabella grapes They can be safely eaten by sick or well child or adult They are delicious food at any meal or by the way side. Any one has room enough and it requires no art to cultivate them The care and attention bestowed on the vines pay better than any other fruit There is no need of failure. The Concord is the people's grape It flourishes in any soil and no one need fail in its cultivation Most men who read attentively have them but we urge upon our readers the necessity of a little missionary work, by advising those who neither read or think to put out grape vines, and then take care of them

Prune them carefully in October after the leaves have fallen and lay them down and cover with dirt straw or hay In our rich soil no manure is needed Keep them clean of weeds and tie up to posts or trellis, and cutting back too much growth of wood during the months of June and July If every family raised an abundance of grapes it would save half the doctor's bills and keeping people in a good humor there would not be half the divorces in the State

Everything in Order—In presenting any article for sale it pays to have it in order Too much carelessness in the preparation of any article is bad economy Wheat should be thoroughly cleaned, and not bleached by having stood in the shock too long Corn with all the husks off and the mouldy ears thrown out Potatoes and apples well assorted If small potatoes or apples must be sold have them separate Grapes should appear in market in full clusters and all small fruits in shallow baskets or boxes. Hogs and cattle should not be taken to market till they have arrived at full maturity in size and flesh Butter should be in the cleanest vessels and covered with snow white cloths—dirty pails and done up in checked aprons have played out Cheese should not be frescoed with fly-specks Neatness is profitable in all things When your chickens are plump and fat let the purchasers feel their breast bones as much as they please Shun all little dishonest tricks in your sale of farm products but have everything in such complete order that you can honestly demand a good price Choice articles always bring the highest prices and pay the best for the trouble in raising and marketing In everything strive to excel your neighbor Men have made immense fortunes by having their articles for sale a little better than could be had elsewhere This is the key to success Everything in order —Des Moines Register

Effects of a Tornado—The neatest achievement of a tornado which passed over Sullivan county, N H, some days ago was the removal of the House of Bushwell Benway of Last Units The house was instantaneously taken from its foundation and moved 40 feet, as if it had slid on ice Scarcely an underpinning stone was displaced not a thing was dropped into the cellar, which was deep and of the size of the whole house nor was the ground where it stopped but little disturbed Mr Benway was pumping a pail of water in the back room, and his wife was in the front room both were carried along only being aware that the same terrible blow had fallen upon their dwelling, but having no suspicion that it had been moved, and neither of them was hurt Many of the windows were smashed out every article of crockery or glass was broken to pieces, clothes that were hanging about and other things were scattered rods away The back side of the house coming in contact with the front doorstep and perhaps the underpinning the latter was handsomely laid on the ground inside down and although badly racked the house stood, while the shed some thirty feet in length, at the end was entirely demolished

President Grant's Deposit—The story that President Grant had a large deposit in the First National Bank at the time of its suspension is denied General Grant had not a "special deposit" at the time of the First National Bank suspension And it is also the fact that his account only covered his own personal salary it having been the custom of former Presidents to instruct some bank to collect their salary from the Government, from Mr Buchanan's time of service to General Grant's. Grant only instructed the First National Bank to collect his salary account and instead of his having a special deposit to his credit, his personal account was actually overdrawn ($71) and this has since been paid to the receiver and the account closed He did have "a little tin box" in the bank of Jay Cooke & Co containing his valuable private papers and among other things, the Rawlins bonds which he holds in trust, but not a dollar in money on his own account —Washington Chronicle Oct 10

Excellent Interest Rules—For finding the interest on any principal for any number of days The answer in each case being in cents separate the two right hand figures of answer to express in dollars and cents

Four Per Cent—Multiply the principal by the number of days to run separate right hand figure from product and divide by 9

Five Per Cent—Multiply by number of days and divide by 72

Six Per Cent—Multiply by number of days separate right hand figure and divide by 6

Eight Per Cent—Multiply by number of days and divide by 45

Nine Per Cent—Multiply by number of days separate right hand figure and divide by 4

Ten Per Cent—Multiply by number of days and divide by 36

CÆSARISM.

Strange specter with the Roman nose!
 Great bugaboo of form gigantic,
Quaking at thy majestic pose,
 The wild Bohemian is frantic.
Clouds darken his bewildered brain,
 And break in showers of ink-like rivers;
While—drenched from Florida to Maine—
 The great Republic sits and shivers.

Spirit of '76! Dont see"
 This phantom from the yellow Tiber
Clutch with its fingers freedom's tree—
 Tear out the heart and rend the fiber?
Is there no wrinkle on thy brow,
 Nor any ghostly hand to stay us—
Or must this full-orbed Nation now
 Rush back into general chaos?

Meanwhile—with hideous jest and joke—
 This modern Cæsar, most "imperious,"
Sits on his throne and takes his smoke;
 G. Washington! Is not this serious!
Wake, freedom's sires! The specter seize—
 Forth from the tyrant's finger's tear it—
If not, then throttle, if you please,
 That wild Bohemian in his garret!

CANINE INTELLIGENCE.

An English friend of the writer, who resided many years in Texas, traveled, when a young man, in France. He became the purchaser of a poodle dog, belonging to a non-commissioned officer in an infantry regiment, stationed in Paris. The dog was the pet of the whole command, from its great intelligence, and the many amusing as well as remarkable tricks which it performed.

Our Englishman, then a gay, wild, jolly, young man of fortune, saw the poodle blow out a lighted candle every time it was held to him. John Bull-like, he determined to [illegible] that dog if he had to box with the whole [illegible]. It was with great difficulty that he could induce the sergeant to part with the dog, so afraid was he of the anger of the regiment; and it was only by offering a very large price, half in advance, balance on delivery, that the [illegible] carried this point, and had to wait [illegible] for the regiment to leave Paris, ere the poodle could be transferred.

To [illegible] all the [illegible] and wonderful [illegible] that this sagacious poodle could perform [illegible] their pet by over one thousand [illegible] hours of [illegible], during two or [illegible] with them—would be [illegible], for it would not be believed.

On one [illegible], of a hot summer day, our [illegible] (whom we call Illingsby) [illegible] Englishmen to play a game [illegible] of Calais. Such active [illegible] hot weather, naturally made [illegible], and it was not long ere all [illegible] drinkables had vanished in the [illegible] drinkable do [illegible] among thirsty [illegible] day. The game was a [illegible] well contested, and by-and-by [illegible] before. Their dis[illegible] that there was nothing at [illegible] their thirst was loudly ex[illegible] that it was im[illegible] on with the game without some[illegible] to give up the game was [illegible] of.

[illegible] who, with his poodle (named [illegible]) a quiet looker on of the game, [illegible], and as some of the crick[illegible] his stories of the poodle's [illegible], offered to bet them, one [illegible] could send Zouzon back to the [illegible] to drink for them, and [illegible] could not only get the refresh[illegible] "I bring it back all by himself, [illegible] his mere verbal instructions. [illegible] every cricketer at once, with [illegible].

[illegible] Zouzon. The dog came. [illegible] to you!" [illegible], looking as grave and dignified [illegible].

[illegible]," said Illingsby, "I will [illegible] in Zouzon's ears, and [illegible] I will tell you what I directed [illegible]."

[illegible] down and whispered to [illegible] patting him on the head; [illegible].

[illegible] the dog at a rapid rate, straight [illegible].

[illegible]," said Illingsby, "I ordered [illegible] to my [illegible] in the hotel; he [illegible] of burgundy on the center [illegible] it in one of my boots, which [illegible] the door, and bring them, [illegible] down here to me."

[illegible] of derisive laughter [illegible].

[illegible] you double the bets?" said Il[illegible].

[illegible] to Calais was considerable, but [illegible] fly and rapidly on, and [illegible] no more. After resting [illegible] their game, de[illegible] it as soon as possible, and [illegible] the city for an early dinner. [illegible] slight [illegible] faith in Illingsby's [illegible] was a myth.

[illegible] the height of the game, Illings[illegible] and looked down the [illegible] level avenue leading to the [illegible] a dark spot dimly visible in [illegible].

[illegible] it's not the poodle!" exclaimed [illegible] Illingsby.

[illegible] came the black spot. It [illegible]. Still on it came steadily. [illegible], if its the dog, he didn't get [illegible] sent for!" exclaimed another [illegible].

[illegible] Illingsby.

[illegible] certain that the black spot was a [illegible] that the black dog was Zouzon; [illegible] his head [illegible] high in [illegible] air, and that he carried some object in his [illegible].

[illegible] boot!" cried Illingsby, snapping [illegible].

[illegible] there is nothing in the boot!" [illegible] cricketer.

[illegible] Illingsby, who would [illegible] on his favorite.

[illegible] but [illegible] up to his [illegible] the boot in his mouth. [illegible] that he had performed a remarka[illegible].

[illegible] dumb. Illingsby held [illegible]. An angry frown had gathered on [illegible].

[illegible] dog! he has forgotten the bur[illegible].

[illegible] laughed in triumph. Zou[illegible] at his master's feet, looked [illegible]. Illingsby put [illegible] boot.

[illegible] exclaimed, a smile lighting up [illegible], "here is the bottle after all [illegible] out a bottle of wine.

[illegible], as I'm a living man!" cried [illegible].

[illegible] examined the bottle one by [illegible] silence. Zouzon whined and [illegible] his tail.

"Hello! what's this!" exclaimed Illingsby, with a look of intense surprise, as he pulled out a [illegible] wrapped in paper. "My silver cup and [illegible]. I left them on the table, but I forgot to tell Zouzon to put them in the [illegible] and he has done it of his own accord."

The cricketers cheered wildly, Zouzon jumped [illegible] delighted. Illingsby opened the bottle, [illegible] to the poodle's health. So did the [illegible].

[illegible] Zouzon is dead long ago. Illingsby is some[illegible] in Omaha or Nebraska, or thereabout. Let Darwin ponder this true narrative.

A TWO THOUSAND DOLLAR PARROT.

[From the New York Sun.]

"He was nineteen years old, could talk like a lawyer, and was the handsomest bird that ever lived."

That was John Enright's description of his parrot in the Special Sessions yesterday.

"How much is he worth?" asked Justice Ledwith, desiring to fix the grade of crime of which Thomas Miller, accused of stealing the bird, was guilty.

"Two thousand dollars," was the prompt reply.

Nothing could induce Mr. Enright to lessen his valuation, and he was allowed to tell his story of the theft. Miller had, with a hook and string, fished up the cage from where it [illegible] a fourth-story window, and skur[illegible] away with it over the roofs. Mr. Enright, [illegible] of the sacred bird, had chased the thief and caught him. Miller was sen[illegible] to the penitentiary for three months.

"If the cursed parrot had kept his mouth shut," he told the officer who escorted him to the Black Maria, "I'd have been all right. He kept bellering out, 'Hi! hi!' and 'Polly's a bully boy!' and [illegible] at him he only kept it up the [illegible]. It's my [illegible] that a [illegible]."

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

TUESDAY EVENING, October 21, 1873.

Gold in New York to-day, 108⅝.

Portland Legal Tender rates, 90½ buying; 91½ selling.

Gold bars are quotable at 725@750 fine.

Exchange on San Francisco, ¾ of 1 ℔ cent. discount.

Liverpool Wheat, 12s 5d@12s 8d; club, 12s 9d@13s.

The views of prominent financiers on the question of the resumption of specie payment, which recent events have brought into prominence, are interesting if not instructive. One of them, who has ventilated his views, suggests that the Secretary of the Treasury make a test sale of gold to find what it will bring in currency, and if the latter prove to be par, as he believes, then to declare the determination to pay gold for greenbacks at the Sub-Treasury. Mr. John J. Cisco, formerly Assistant Treasurer in New York city, declares that specie payment cannot be adopted at once, but definite steps should be taken which would tend to it at a fixed time in the future; then commerce would shape itself to meet it when it came. Mr. Thompson, of the First National Bank of Philadelphia, believes that as nobody has money to hoard, prices are, or soon will be, such that property or investments will be better than money; and as gold is not needed for export, the exchanges being all in our favor, the gold and silver in the country will become currency (by an immediate resumption,) and will add eighty millions of positive relief. Scores of equally diverse views might be given, and it is because of this diversity of opinion that we continue to drift with an irredeemable currency.

Fear has been expressed in some quarters that the banks will begin to draw in immediately their loans and thus distress the mercantile community, who are hard pressed to make collections, and are having to renew and carry over many bills which they had justly counted as sure to be paid.

There is no doubt that the banks will make as few new contracts as possible, and will move with great caution in the immediate future, yet they all seem to realize that they must do their part toward restoring confidence by a liberal use of their reserves, as well as the public by decreasing as much as possible the demand for deposits and new loans. As we have no published bank statement we cannot tell the condition of the reserves held; so it is but idle guess work to attempt to say to what extent the banks are able to extend their loans with safety. We feel safe in stating that discounts will be granted to reliable firms doing a legitimate business to the fullest extent consistent with safety to bankers and their depositors.

Trade in Provisions.

Nothing in our market strikes the observer as being less inexplicable than the very large amount of provisions, especially Lard and Bacon, which are brought to this coast and to this State annually from the East. At no time is there not to be found here large stocks of Eastern and California bacon, and sometimes it is the only in the market. The prices demanded for this imported article is relatively low, leaving, as we are informed, but very little margin on Eastern rates. Arrivals have been free all through the summer season, notwithstanding the advantages for hog raising in Oregon are such as ought to forever put a stop to importations, and to keep the large sums paid out every year, in the country. If our farmers paid that attention to the subject which its importance demands. The export demand for provisions is gradually increasing, and in many instances our local packers are successfully competing with Eastern markets for the trade of our Western coasts, which is gradually expanding. This branch of industry will never be on a basis of permanent prosperity, however, until sufficient hogs are raised in this State to prevent the necessity of large importations from points of supply East, and our local packers have only kept up with the trade by becoming themselves importers, one house on the coast alone having this year paid the Central Pacific nearly $60,000 gold freight on pork products.

The Tea Trade.

Advices concerning the tea trade by the last [illegible] arriving at San Francisco from China, are of more than usual interest. In several of the markets, prices were higher for some grades. This is regarded as a little singular in the present unsatisfactory condition of the Tea trade in the United [illegible]. Advices from Foochow to September 2d report firmness on the part of teamen and hesitancy on the part of buyers. Small sales of Oolong had been effected at 16@17 taels for fair to good cargo. Stocks embrace 80,000 hf chests Oolong, 77,000 chests Congou and 1,200 chests Souchong. Amoy dates of Sept [illegible] 4th report large settlements of Oolong at slightly lower rates for teas grading from superior down [illegible]. The total exports to America from Amoy direct and by way of Hongkong, including Formosa Teas had been 1,572,000 lbs, against 4,632,000 lbs for the same time last year. The stock at the [illegible] was 44,500 hf chests. Shanghai dates of September 11th report a good demand for Black Teas, with upward [illegible], prices advancing in some instances 1@2 [illegible]. The stock was 19,000 chests. There had also been a large business in Green Teas at an advance of fully 2 taels from the lowest point of the market. It was noteworthy, however, that American buyers were standing aloof. The quotations for Tienkai, Fychow and Moyune were 40@43 taels for fine to finest, 37@39 taels for medium to good, and 30@36 taels for common to fair; common to fine Pingsuey, 26@33 taels. The stock of the first three named kinds was 17,000 hf chests, and of Pingsuey 11,000 hf chests. The Benefactor and Argonaut had sailed for New York with full cargoes, leaving on the berth the sailing vessels Harlaw, Conqueror and John R. Worcester at £3, and the British steamer Galley of Lorne at £5, while the Cassandra, Patroclus, S. V. Laurel and Leucadia were loading for London at £3@£4.

Miscellaneous.

The following were the amounts of grain in store at Chicago, October 4th: Wheat, bushels, 1,009,019; corn, 4,280,256; oats, 621,306; rye, 106,097; barley, 477,061.

The amounts of grain in store in New York and Brooklyn warehouses October 4th, were as follows: Wheat, bushels, 613,570; corn, 2,347,528; oats, 211,068; barley, 5,211; rye, 46,325; peas, 976; malt, 163,476.

In a recent letter to the London Times about the British potato crop, Thomas C. Scott says:

SIR—I am constrained to state that since I wrote you on the 12th instant, the potato crop, which I then said "remained generally intact" has since become almost everywhere extensively blighted, and that we shall now lose at least a ton per acre of this year's universally good crop from this cause. The area now returned for Great Britain is 514,693 acres, and taking that of Ireland at 1,100,000 acres, we have in round numbers 1,600,000 acres on which the loss will thus be 1,600,000 tons, equal in value at present price, of £5 to £6 a ton, to from £8,000,000 to £9,000,000 in money. As the crop is great, and the season far advanced, I have no doubt from four to five tons an acre will be saved, equal to from 6,400,000 to 8,000,000 tons of food. Last year, early in August, as I stated in your columns of the 7th of September, half the crop in the United Kingdom had been lost and reduced in value from an average of £20 an acre to $2 or $3. This season we are a month later in having the disease, and there is at least one-third more potatoes per acre in the ground. If, then, we assume that the probable loss is settled and ascertained, it is clear that it cannot affect our food supplies to the same extent as it did last year.

There are $70,000,000 in the Savings Banks of California, and giving the population of the State, in round numbers, at 600,000, of all ages and sexes, this would give a net capital to each individual of over $83.

SAVINGS DEPARTMENT.

THIS BANK HAS ESTABLISHED IN CONNECTION with the general Banking business a SAVINGS DEPARTMENT, and will allow interest on Coin Deposits made in accordance with the conditions adopted by the Association.

In establishing a SAVINGS DEPARTMENT, this Banking Association has in view the benefits to accrue to a class of persons having small sums to loan, by providing a safe place of deposit, ample security and fair rate of interest, as well as to aggregate and bring into use idle capital.

For the safety of deposits in this Bank are pledged its entire capital and resources, and also the personal liability of its Directors and Stockholders, as provided by Section 12 of the National Currency Act, approved June 3, 1864, a greater security than that given by ordinary Savings Banks. Printed copies of the conditions upon which deposits are received may be had upon application at the Bank.

NEW REMEDIES! NEW REMEDIES!!
Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,
623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and [illegible] successfully [illegible].

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing [illegible] he has returned from visiting the principal [illegible] of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearney street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

[illegible]

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at the pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and the broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation [illegible] closes the scene. Let [illegible], guard [illegible] tend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life-destroying maladies [illegible] cared for and cured [illegible] it be too late. [illegible] immediately to DR. GIBBON, [illegible] made private [illegible] and who is certain to cure the [illegible] without mercury or any injurious d[illegible]. It is important to those who are afflicted, or [illegible] are interested in the welfare of their [illegible], to be careful of the many [illegible] doctors who [illegible] all cities, publishing their skill in curing all [illegible] in a few days, imposing upon the public by the names of [illegible] physicians [illegible] other [illegible] careful and [illegible] inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of charlatans.

[illegible]

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self [illegible]. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, [illegible] combated by scientific medical measures, viz: low countenance, dark [illegible] under the eyes, [illegible] the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the [illegible] of leaves and rattling of chariots, [illegible] the [illegible] weak [illegible] of the limbs, [illegible] blunted intellect, loss of confidence, [illegible] approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, [illegible] to shun society, [illegible] [illegible] about the face, furred [illegible] frequent [illegible]. If [illegible] apply [illegible] have a cure effected by his new and [illegible] of [illegible], which [illegible] ing a quick and [illegible]. Dr. G. will [illegible] Hundred Dollars to any person who will [illegible] factorily to him that he was cured of this [illegible] by [illegible] of the San F[illegible].

[illegible]

Or [illegible] who [illegible] any of [illegible] forget the [illegible] nor delay to [illegible]. DR. GIBBON is [illegible], and will give to patients a written [illegible] binding [illegible] fect a radical and [illegible] cure, or [illegible].

[illegible]

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT [illegible] by addressing a [illegible] to Dr. GIBBON [illegible] symptoms, length of time the disease has [illegible] and have medicines [illegible] forwarded, free from [illegible] and [illegible], to any part of the [illegible] with full and plain directions [illegible]. By [illegible] Dollars coin, in [illegible] through the [illegible] office or through Wells, Fargo & Co., [illegible] will be forwarded to any [illegible] Union. All communications [illegible] strictly [illegible].

[illegible]

Beware of the San Francisco [illegible] and pretenders who, with [illegible] to [illegible] the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors [illegible] names are to be found in the daily and newspapers of San Francisco and [illegible] trade [illegible] and [illegible] too lazy to work at [illegible] trades. Some are [illegible], [illegible] charlatans, intelligence offices, [illegible] papers, etc. The [illegible] way to avoid imposition is to make inquiries. It [illegible] cost you nothing, and may save you many [illegible] for, as advertised [illegible] in eight, [illegible] ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting [illegible] them until you know who and what they are. [illegible] Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting [illegible] titles, certificates, pretended patients [illegible] Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to [illegible] that he [illegible] to cure.
